MARYVILLE COURSE HAS $270.30 FUND

ONLY LYCEUM IN THIS SECTION TO FINISH WITH BALANCE.

WILL MEAN BETTER TALENT NEXT YEAR

Audience Last Night Votes for Fewer Numbers and Higher Classed Artists.

The Maryville Lyceum association finished the season last night with a balance of $270.30. The announcement by Prof. Geo. H. Colbert last night was greeted with applause by the audience at the last number.

A "hands-up" vote was taken by the chairman last night as to the sentiment for next year. The unanimous vote was for a course of equal worth next year and the majority favored fewer numbers on the course and a better talent.

As the committee is merely a community affair and is perpetuated from year to year without any profit to anyone, the committee next year will begin with a balance of $270.30. Five numbers will probably be secured and Madame Schuman-Heink is being prominently mentioned as the leading number. The tentative financial report was issued this morning. It is:

Received:
Balance from season 1914-15.....$ 63.24
Sale of course tickets.....1,275.00
Door receipts, single admis'ns.....175.50

Total receipts.....$1,513.04
Paid out:
For talent.....$1,000.00
For advertising.....151.05
For rent of church.....60.00
For incidentals.....34.69

Total.....$1,245.74
Balance on hand.....$ 270.30

Best of Artists' Series.
The opinion of the audience last night was that the program was by far the best presentation made this year by the Best Artists' Series. The most pleasing feature of the playing of Senor Sala on the cello was the brilliant execution and the remarkable violin-like tones. A long cadenza near the close of Haydn's concerto created much comment.

Miss Lois Brown deserves much credit for her work. Not only did she play her own numbers better than the ordinary of program pianists, but she also accompanied both of the other performers. Her first encore, Mendelssohn's Scherzo, was well done. Miss Mignonne Meeker was at her best in low tones of the upper register. Her singing was rather constrained at times, however. She grew in popularity toward the close of the program and her last group of songs were well received.

A meeting of the lyceum committee will be at 4:30 next Friday afternoon for the purpose of closing up the work for this year and the election of officers for next year. This is the only association in this section of the country which has finished the season on the right side of the ledger.

DISTRICT MEETING APRIL PETIT JURORS

SOUTHERN METHODIST CONFERENCE AT BARNARD, MARCH 15-18. NAMED BY COUNTY COURT YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

WAS THERE LAST YEAR ALL ASSESSMENTS RAISED

The Rev. R. C. Holliday on Program—J. H. Thorp and J. J. Pyles the Other Maryville Delegates.

The district conference of the St. Joseph M. E. churches (South) will be held at Barnard Wednesday to Friday of next week. The Rev. R. C. Holliday, J. H. Thorp and J. J. Pyles are the delegates from the Buchanan Street Methodist church here. A. T. Stinson will probably go also.

Mr. Holliday is also on the program for a paper upon "Church Literature as an Ally of the Preacher," Wednesday afternoon. He will discuss with several other pastors "How I Raised My Collections in Full Last Year," Friday morning and will lead the song service Friday evening.

The conference was held in Barnard last year on a sudden shift from Maryville when the church was unable to entertain them on account of so much sickness. The Barnard people were so delighted with the conference that they asked for a chance to entertain again when they would have more time to prepare.

This was granted by the conference and Barnard will be given the opportunity next week. About fifty delegates will be entertained. The Rev. A. B. Duncan, D. D., of St. Joseph is presiding elder of the district. The program follows:

PLAY SECOND TEAM

SO BENTON WON LAST NIGHT 41 TO 10.

H. S. STUDENTS INCENSED

But Authorities Hold That Discipline Could Not Be Upheld Otherwise.

"41 to 10 in favor of Westbrook," said a student of the Maryville high school with a snort of disgust at the report of the Benton game at St. Joseph was received in the office of The Democrat-Forum last night. But this remark was received with shouts of laughter and has been the slogan of the game ever since with the rosters. And it is worthy of the "it is to laugh" column to see how the report affected the students who called up for the score. Several of the students who remained in the office until late and helped to answer the phones say that they never had to repeat the answer for a student. "I got you" would always be the instantaneous reply.

All of which is to say that one regular, two subs and two second-team men represented Maryville against Benton high school in St. Joseph last night by orders of Supt. W. M. Westbrook. The boys were declared ineligible because they went to St. Joseph yesterday morning against the orders of the superintendent, although with their parents' consent.

So Captain Tilson and Hughes, star guards; Crawford, leading point-getter in several games this season, and Nixon and Woodard watched the game from the side lines. Egley and Van Cleve, forwards; Howard Martin, center, and Baker and Harris, guards, played the game for Maryville.

They did their best against great odds, and it was good. Six of the ten points were made in three field goals by Egley. Van Cleve made the other four points by free throws from the foul line. Mastellar, star center for Benton, did the best work for his school, slipping in seven field goals.

Made a Plucky Fight, said Coach Becker last night after the game. "The floor work of the seconds was as good as Benton's, but the team had never played together before and they had no signals or team work. I will always feel confident at any rate that my first team could have won the game."

That opinion was expressed after the game by Lichtenberger, well known St. Joseph referee, who watched the game. He complimented the second team boys upon their great up-hill fight. Palmer gave complete satisfaction as referee.

Mr. Westbrook decided at the last minute not to go to St. Joseph for the game, but his orders were very strict upon Coach Becker that the men who went to St. Joseph in the morning should not be played. It was then up to Becker to pick a team or forfeit the game. It was only after considerable effort and pleading upon the part of the coach that the men who made up the team consented to go.

So the "scrubs" went up against their opponents after less than five minutes practice upon a strange court, having just eaten supper, when all trainers insist that a meal should be eaten several hours, at least three, before the game. Martin did well against the big Benton center, and Harris played a fine defensive game.

Fifteen Rooters With Them.
About fifteen Maryville rooters went with the team in spite of the disappointing prospects. Among these were Francis Cummins, Byron Price, Elmer Allen, Clarence Cook, "Dutch" Buhler, "Bud" Hughes, George Crowson, Homer Scott, Nile Seelman, Dewey Saunders, Harry Gray, Charles Bellows, Robert Harris and Walter Wray.

The condition of affairs was explained to the crowd at St. Joseph last night before the game. Those who had come out expecting a close, hard fought contest greeted the announcement that the second team would have to play with much displeasure.

But their ill feeling was all smiles compared to the disgruntled attitude of the students of the Maryville high school.

The students are aggrieved because of several things. First, they feel that his refusal to allow the team to go in the morning was not justified by any reasons given. "If you have a team and expect and desire them to win, they should be given time for practice and to get their suppers several hours (Continued on next page.)

CAMPAIGN WELL UNDER WAY NOW

FORMER SECRETARY GARRISON ASSISTING BAKER.

GENERAL FUNSTON IS AT FORT BLISS TODAY

United States Leader Expected to Reach Border in Twenty-Four Hours for Pursuit.

Special to The Democrat-Forum.
Washington, March 11.—The campaign to capture Villa is well under way today, according to the high officials of the war department. They refuse to permit the publication of any information of what is being done, but it is generally understood that the first and second cavalry brigades and other units are now on the move.

President Wilson, who left for the week end on the Mayflower, will be in constant touch with the situation by wireless, and all messages from the border will be transmitted to him. Former Secretary of War Garrison is on the job, assisting Secretary of War Baker, who was just appointed and confirmed.

Funston to Border Soon.
El Paso, March 11.—General Funston, who is at Fort Bliss, San Antonio, expected to reach the border within twenty-four hours. This will be the signal to advance the American troops into Mexico.

In the meantime the work of taking into custody Villa adherents continues, and the round-up began shortly before midnight, when it was learned Villa spies were active here and ammunition being smuggled across the border. Federal agents learned that a hundred thousand pounds were taken out of El Paso in wagons and soldiers in automobiles were sent in pursuit with order to prevent the delivery.

Carranza Wants Reciprocal Relation.
Washington, March 11.—Confidential reliable reports here from General Carranza notified the government he will not object to American troops pursuing Villa and will co-operate, providing the United States enters reciprocal agreement allowing Carranza troops to cross the United States if Villa enters this country.

Washington, March 11.—The Mexican embassy has been notified that the colony of five hundred Mormons at Casagrande were saved by the Carranza troops under General Bertani. Bertani telegraphed he is working in co-operation with General Slocum, American commander at Columbus.

Yesterday he took up the Villa trail and attempted to surround bandit. By hard riding Villa escaped. Bertani reports Villa is accompanied by only three hundred body guards.

Officials of the Mexican embassy declare Bertani's report means the days of Villa are numbered and everything indicates that there are no complications between the two countries.

Secretary of State Lansing received a lengthy communication from Carranza. Carranza agrees to the American troops to follow Villa, but asks his troops be granted similar rights in the United States.

Further Carranza Assertions.
Washington, March 11.—In its note the Carranza government claims that Villa and his men were driven across the border by his troops prior to the Columbus raid, and he intimates that if his troops had been permitted to proceed that Villa would have eventually been captured.

Secretary Lansing made plain that an early reply to the note would not be made as suggestions must be carefully considered.

California Cavalry Off.
San Francisco, March 11.—The First cavalry left today on a special train for the Mexican border.

A grey wolf is an addition to Krug park, St. Joseph, through the kindness of Sheriff Ed Wallace. The Wallace children raised it from a small whelp on a bottle.

The wolf was about a year old, and, like all wolves, just had a natural inclination to become very much attached to all chickens of any variety, and the Wallace hen roost and others also suffered. Hence Mr. Wallace's extreme kindness in supplying Krug park with an addition for the zoo.

TUESDAY A BIG DAY

W. C. VAN CLEVE WRITES OF CONGRESSIONAL FIGHT.

BOOHER'S STAND PLAIN

Believed Wilson's Position Just and Right—Resume of the Present Situation.

(By W. C. Van Cleve.)

Washington, D. C., March 7.—Tuesday was a day of intense interest in the house of representatives. The following conversation was heard between two members of congress. Said one: "Who is Jeff McLemore, any way?"

"He is a new member from Texas," replied his colleague. "What has he ever done?" asked the first member. "He has raised hell," promptly replied the other. A volume of words might have described the situation less accurately.

Some time ago word came that the negotiations between this country and a foreign country over the methods of conducting a submarine warfare were reaching a critical stage and there was an immediate rush by well meaning but misguided statesmen to aid in the matter by the introduction of sundry bills and resolutions relating to the situation. Mr. McLemore was one of these. He introduced a resolution containing several features, but which was primarily a resolution to direct the president to warn all Americans against taking passage on armed merchantmen. In itself, stripped of its relation to the diplomatic situation, it looked good, and a great many members promptly declared themselves in favor of it. Some of them were so enthusiastic that the newspapers saw in it the beginning of a big mutiny in congress against the president and his foreign policies.

This was published to the world, and the department of state found that the reports had embarrassed it by creating an erroneous impression abroad. Thereupon the leaders of house and senate began at once to put the lid on and all talk ceased, and it was regarded as certain that, so far as the house was concerned, at least, the resolutions would rest quietly in the committees to which they had been referred.

The president decided that nothing short of a vote by congress would be sufficient to disabuse the public mind and allay future aggravation. So he called upon both senate and house to dig up the buried resolutions, one by Mr. Gore in the senate and one by Mr. McLemore in the house, and take a vote on them. This put a lot of members of both houses in tight quarters, and there has been much shuffling and deliberation. Finally it was decided to end the controversy by voting to lay the resolutions on the table. The senate voted last week to do this, but under the rules of the senate, Mr. Gore was allowed to "perfect his resolution" by changing it after the motion to table was made and when no other change was permissible. Almost a solid vote was then cast to table, but senators continue to talk.

The matter came up in the house yesterday, and after a heated discussion, in which all men of all parties declared their purpose to stand by the administration, if trouble should come, but differed as to the merits and the advisability of the proposition. The vote resulted in a decisive majority for the president. A number of Democrats (34) voted no, but 90 Republicans voted in the affirmative. It is to be hoped that this ends the controversy until such time as congressional action is necessary, should it ever come.

Individual members were to blame in the beginning for too much talking in the cloak rooms, which leaked out to the newspaper reporters. Diplomatic negotiations belong entirely to the president and secretary of state. When they have reached the end of the lane, the president may lay the facts before congress, and it is then compelled to exercise its constitutional responsibility of determining whether there shall be or shall not be war. Every one has the fullest confidence in the president's ability to carry on the negotiations to a peaceful conclusion. The president's greatest desire is for peace.

A good many members, however, felt that, after the matter had been smothered in committees, it was unfair for the president to demand that the remains be exhumed and a formal funeral held. It caused a good many individual embarrassments and considerable feeling, as is evidenced by the announcement of three or four able and valuable members that will not stand for re-election.

Representative Booher took the position from the beginning that, under existing international law, the position of the president has been absolutely correct and that he should be allowed a free hand to work out the problem without any interference whatever.

Neutral nations have not the right to change international law during a war, and could not, without plunging into fatal complications, and the beligerent nations, of course, will not agree to a change.

TWO MORE LETTERS

KIRKSVILLE AND MONETT OFFICIALS REPLY.

ON COMMISSION FORM

City Clerk of South Missouri City Enthusiastic—Consensus of Opinion Favorable.

Kirkville and Monett have tried the Commission Form of government and each city likes it, according to their city officials. The following letters explain in a general way what has been done:

Monett, Mo., March 3.

Editor Democrat-Forum:

My Dear Sir:—Your letter under date of Feb. 20th addressed to our Mayor has just been handed to me for reply, and in connection with the Commission form of Government, I wish to say, Monett adopted the Commission form of Government in March 1914 and elected our new officers consisting of a Mayor and TWO Councilmen in April same year and I can freely and emphatically say the form has been a howling success in this city and our Citizens would not return to the old Councilmanic form of Government under any consideration.

The City's affairs is much easier handled, all departments being divided among the officers and each officer knows his duties and there is no possible way for one Councilman to shift his responsibilities on to another and again any Citizen wanting information, or improvements, or has a complaint to offer knows just who to go to for relief.

Our Financial conditions are Thousands of Dollars better than they were before, I could numerate a hundred different ways wherein the city has been benefited, but this would probably not interest your Citizens.

If there is any thing special that you would like to know, will gladly furnish the information if possible.

Yours very truly

J. L. HOBBS,

Clerk and Accountant.

From Kirkville's Mayor.

Dear Sir:—Your letter of February 20th relative to commission form of government as applied in Kirkville received.

We have been under commission form of government almost two years. I believe it is the census of opinion that it is an improvement over the old form. We have a Mayor and two Councilmen and the various departments of the city government are divided among the three above named officers. In this way we have direct supervision over all of the affairs of the City, and the Mayor and two commissioners become directly responsible for the proper management of the affairs of the city. There is no disposition on the part of the people to change back to the old form of government. I receive a salary of $750.00 per year and each of the commissioners receive a salary of $600.00 per year.

If I am able to give you any further information along these lines I shall be glad to do so.

Yours truly,

CHARLES E. MURRELL.

The fact that the boys were ruled out after they went to St. Joseph with their parents' consent also added fuel to the flames. "By what right can men be declared ineligible because they missed one day of school?" is the other constant query.

Authorities' Side of Case.

Over against these are the reasons given by the authorities through Superintendent Westbrook today that the team always has gone in the afternoon, and that to have gone in the morning would have meant a loss of one day in school for all the team, the coach and all his classes.

Mr. Westbrook also pointed out that the team would not have rested if they had gone in the morning to St. Joseph, so that they would have been in better shape to remain in Maryville. Those were the reasons given for the refusal to permit the team to go in the morning. The cause of ruling the five men ineligible as given by Mr. Westbrook is that only men can play representing Maryville who make the trip in a body with the coach and rest of the team.

The incident comes as a sequel to another matter which has been a source of friction between Mr. Westbrook and the players during the last week. The executive committee of the Maryville H. S. Athletic association voted that the members of the team winning "M's" should also be given sweaters. Mr. Westbrook vetoed this and requested that the funds, about $45, should be applied upon a piano which was purchased last year by the glee clubs.

In accordance with the agreement by which the team consented to the trip yesterday afternoon, the men who made the morning trip were given their expenses. The executive committee of Merl Seelman, president; Kenneth Van Cleve, coach Becker and Principal G. P. McGrew made this decision.

remarks that it is a mistake to apply perfume directly to one's clothes. She says that mere suggestion is sufficient. She applies a minute quantity of perfume to the lobes of her ears, the tip of her chin, and to her shoulders. The result is just a breath of delicious fragrance.

Oriental Perfumes are favorably known for their delicacy among women of refinement. They impart a delightful elusive fragrance that suggests the scent-laden air wafted from tropical gardens.

"UNDINE" AT THE FERN.

Beautiful French Drama of the Sea Will Be Shown Next Wednesday.

Jim Ellis of the Fern theater announced today that he has booked "Undine," a beautiful French drama, in which Ida Schnall and her twenty-five diving mermaid beauties take the leading part. This film will be shown next Wednesday, matinee and night.

"Undine" is similar, yet far more lavish, than Neptune's Daughter, with Annette Kellerman, which was shown at the Fern in January.

Following a special run of the picture for newspaper men in Kansas City, the photo play editor of the Kansas City Star wrote the following criticism, in part, of the picture:

The real beauty of the picture is in the many scenes of the water nymphs, subjects of the queen, "Unda." To make these realistic as well as artistic, twenty-five young women, wonderful swimmers and beautiful in both face and figure, were taken to Santa Cruz island, an excellent setting for the "water stuff." These young women frolic about in the turbulent waters of the sea as if they were in the still waters of a natatorium, and then continue their games on the rocky coast.

The Supremacy of Peruna as a Household Remedy

44 Years of Leadership

Returned to His Work.

Mr. Julien Goodson, Brimley, La., suffered with catarrh of the stomach. He did not know what his trouble was. He was unable to work. Could hardly eat anything. After taking Peruna a short time he is now in perfect health. He says: "I am now doing all my work. I am confident that any one suffering as I was could be cured by Peruna."

Every Change of Weather.

Mr. E. Arnold, Westerly, R. I., contracted a severe cold. The cold settled in his side and produced a condition that was thought to be pleurisy. Every change of weather would bring a return of his trouble. After taking Peruna all his ailments have vanished.

Pain in the Stomach.

Mr. Henry Knott, Box 80, No. 1118 E. Vista Ave., Jamestown, Wis., writes: "I wrote you about four weeks ago that I had a pain in my stomach. I followed your advice, and used three bottles of your Peruna, and I am all right now. I am very thankful for your advice and your medicine."

Three substantial men, heads of families, made efficient once more by Peruna. Three housewives restored to their families. These are only samples of what Peruna is doing every day, everywhere. Surely, this is a splendid work. Anything that preserves family life and makes the home more desirable and comfortable, nourishes the heart root of civilization. Peruna is a great civilizer.

A Housewife Restored.

Mrs. R. W. Copelan, Box 22, Groenboro, Ga., suffered several years with catarrh of the stomach. She was in such poor health she could not attend to her household duties at all. Peruna was recommended by neighbors. She was induced to begin the use of Peruna. She says: "After taking five bottles of Peruna I am happy to say that I am entirely cured. My indignation is entirely gone."

Once a Chronic Invalid.

Mrs. E. Baker, 533 Grant Ave., East Cedar Falls, Iowa, was once a chronic invalid. Four different doctors had been consulted without avail. She had taken five different medicines that had been recommended, without improvement. Peruna was tried and the good result was prompt and lasting.

Expresses Her Gratitude.

Mrs. Samuel Ruth, 535 Union Ave., Lebanon, Pa., is able to say positively that she has been cured by Peruna. She can scarcely find words to express her gratitude for her recovery. For many years she had been a semi-invalid from chronic catarrh.

RUSSIAN DUCHESS HELPS SOLDIERS

Former Wife of Prince William of Sweden Active in War.

HAS ACTED WELL AS SPY.

Grand Duchess Marie Was Considered a Light Hearted Girl and Cared For Nothing but a Good Time—After Doing Espionage Work She Returned to Russia—Now Charitable Worker.

Petrograd.—Prince William of Sweden (the Duke of Sudermania), the king's second son, has presented a collection to the museum at Stockholm which is associated with great political events as well as with the shattering of the romance of his marriage. The collection was made on a hunting expedition in East Africa, partly in company with W. N. McMillan of St. Louis, and Nairobi, whither he went a few years ago, after the divorce from his wife, the Grand Duchess Marie Pavlovna of Russia, a cousin of the czar. The marriage was dissolved by the Russian council of state March 20, 1914, negotiations having been made between the governments at Stockholm and Petrograd. It had been celebrated at the Russian capital in May, 1908, and the wedding was one of the most magnificent ever known in the Russian court. All difficulties between the two countries of a political nature were thought to have been settled by a treaty signed at this time.

The Grand Duchess Marie, the daughter of the Grand Duke Paul, the czar's uncle, was considered a light hearted girl who cared for nothing but a good time and was not afraid of occasionally shocking her relatives by jumping over the taut traces of court etiquette. As a young lady she had spent a great deal of her life in Paris with her father, who had made a morganatic marriage with Countess Pistolkors after an unsavory scandal and had been exiled by the czar, but the grand duchess had been brought up by her aunt, the Grand Duchess Serge, the czar's sister, and had been educated to become a domestic, dignified wife of a royal prince. Nobody guessed that when she went to Stockholm and entered the family of the Swedish king she would develop into the most astute and dangerous spy whom the Russian government could employ in the land of its neighbor and possible enemy.

She, with the Russian military attaché and the Russian minister at Stockholm, M. Savinsky, gave her government valuable information. The three—the minister, the attaché and the grand duchess—left Sweden at the same time. Prince William found no trouble in keeping his little boy, born in 1900. The mother apparently had no desire for the child.

But the war found the three in Russia, and the Grand Duke Paul was allowed to return with his morganatic wife. There the grand duchess, now only twenty-six, has become in the meantime immersed in charity work, being at the head of a committee which plans to look after the wounded soldiers when they have recovered sufficiently to take up responsibilities of existence, but are perhaps not strong enough ever to return to the army.

With as much ability and energy as she displayed at Stockholm as a spy she is now displaying as the executive head of a committee so important that it has become an adjunct to the government and receives a subsidy of millions of dollars. The work is thoroughly organized, the young grand duchess having the assistance of a large staff, but giving her orders in military fashion through her aid-de-camp, Colonel Staritski.

ALSO FOR SOUTHLANDS.

Beauty of line is the distinctive mark of this suit. Made of a beautiful quality of white broadcloth, the skirt has a fullness that is achieved by box plaits, while the skirt of the coat gets its flare from two inverted plaits over each hip. The revers are faultlessly tailored, and the demure is finished with four white pearl buttons both back and front. The jaunty little spring hat is of white satin with a grosgrain band and a plunk rosette on the outside of the left brim. This suit is correct for board walk, pier and hotel wear all the spring.

YOUR SPRING BONNET.

The newest shade for hats is wis-taria. It is particularly fetching as seen in the little helmets, which do not look a bit warlike because smoothly covered with crepe georgette and trimmed most unquely with reeds green leaves. This foliage is also in crepe, but of the crinkly sort, and how it permanently retains its crispness is known only to the maker. Possibly instead of a wis-taria crepe helmet you would prefer one in gleaming material, like a brown novelty straw.

SKIDMORE LIGHTS AT LAST

Electric "Blazes" Turned on Saturday Night and Town Now Walks at Night.

After almost a year of watchful waiting the electric lights slipped in upon us Saturday night. Perhaps we should have all got out and hollered, but we couldn't for looking.

The company has had a long, hard job to get here, as last year was one of the worst seasons for work of such kind that has ever been experienced in this country, and it is slow headway in the winter time at the best.

But we are glad to have light as well as power.

We believe the company will give us first class service as the work around town indicates they are installing a good wire system.

Hurrah! The lights are here and long may they shine.—Skidmore News.

THE ALASKAN RAILWAY

BEING PUSHED RAPIDLY, EVEN IN WINTER.

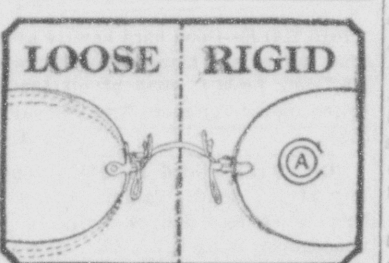

"Country Not so Frigid as is Generally Thought," Says Commissioner Riggs.

"When I came out last fall from Fairbanks," said Thomas R. Riggs, Jr., a member of the Alaskan Engineering Commission, in Washington, the other day, "my feet rested on $150,000 worth of gold bricks—not fake ones, the real thing."

Mr. Riggs came the greater part of the way by stage. But even now, in the dead of winter, the government's railway builders are making the dirt, rock and ice and snow fly in Alaska at such a pace that soon this gold will reach the coast by rail. Rail connection tapping the famous Matanuska Coal Fields probably will be opened up next summer. The through line from Seward, the Southernmost port on the Alaskan gulf, to Fairbanks, in the heart of Alaska, probably will be completed within four years.

This task of "opening up Alaska" is twice that of "opening up the West" which has been so vigorously undertaken by President Wilson and Secretary of the Interior, Franklin K. Lane. The railroad is the wedge by which Alaska will be opened to development. It is likely in the end to become put one of a network of railroads.

Alaska is not nearly as frigid a proposition as most people think. The new railroad will not take you "the farthest north by rail." In Alaska now, running from Nome to Shelton, there is a little narrow-gauge line, which penetrates a good deal farther north than Fairbanks; and from Fairbanks another narrow-gauge line goes 46 miles north into the Chitana mining district. The old Russian line

BABY HYGIENE AND INSPECTION

Fine Paper by Dr. Wm. Wallis Given at Union Meeting Wednesday—Well Worth Reading, Particularly by Parents

The manuscripts of two of the physicians who spoke Wednesday night are given in the following. Only a part of Dr. Will Wallis' paper will be given today, and the rest will be continued tomorrow.

Dr. Will Wallis' Paper.

The physical development of the child is essentially the product of the three factors—inheritance, surroundings and food. The first of these is beyond the physician's power to alter; the second is largely and the third almost entirely within his control, at least in the more intelligent classes of society. These two subjects, infant hygiene and infant feeding, are the most important departments of pediatrics.

Infancy extends from birth to the age of two and a half years, or to the completion of the first teeth. Our subject is the inspection and hygiene of infants, so we will not go beyond this age.

Hygiene. First, the bathing. For the first few months the bath should be given at 98°F. The room should be warm, preferable there should be an open fire. The bath should be short and the body dried quickly, without too vigorous rubbing. The addition of salt to the bath is an advantage where the skin is unusually delicate or excoriations are present. At six months the temperature of the bath for healthy infants may be lowered to 95°F, and by the end of the first year to 90°F. This bath should be given every day.

Older children who are healthy should be sponged at the close of the bath with water at 65 or 70°F. This should be given in a warm room and while the child stands in a tub partly filled with warm water. The cold sponge should last but half a minute and followed by a brisk rubbing of the entire body.

Clothing. The clothing of infants should be light, warm, non-irritating to the skin, and loose enough to allow free motion of the extremities; but should bands be pinned so tightly about the trunk as to embarrass the movements either of the chest or of the abdomen. The chest should be covered with a woolen shirt, high in the neck and with long sleeves. The fashion of low neck and short sleeves for infants, let us hope will pass away, never to return. All petticoats should be supported from the shoulders and not from the waist bands. Care should be taken that in infants the feet be kept warm. If the circulation is very poor, a bag of hot water should always be in the crib. Cold feet are responsible for many attacks of colic and indigestion.

The abdominal band is usually worn during infancy. It cannot be considered a necessity after the first few months, for this period a band of plain flannel is to be preferred; later, a knitted band with shoulder-straps. During the summer months the outer clothing should be light and the underclothing of the thinnest flannel or gauze. The changes of temperature of morning and evening may be met by extra wraps. The custom of allowing young children to go with legs bare has many enthusiastic advocates; while it may not be objectionable during the heat of summer, its advantages at any season are very questionable in a changeable climate. Many delicate children are certainly injured by such ill-advised attempts at hardening.

The night clothing of children should be similar to that worn during the day, but should be loose, the material being of the lightest flannel. Older children should have union suits with feet if there is a tendency to get outside the coverings. The common mistake is to overload all children but especially infants, with covering at night. This is an explanation of much of the restless sleep which is seen particularly in delicate children.

Eyes Should Be Watched. Care of the eyes. During the first few days at the daily bath, the eyes should be cleansed with a saturated solution of boric acid. They should be protected from too strong light during early infancy, it is desirable that a child should always sleep in a darkened room.

Care of the mouth and teeth. The mouth of the newly born infant should be gently cleansed at each morning bath with boiled water and a soft cloth. The primary teeth as well as the permanent set should receive daily attention. Too often they are neglected together. Dirty teeth are too often done by the use of force in cleansing the mouth of the infant. On the first brush the mouth should be washed after each feeding with a solution of bicarbonate of soda. It is likely to sooner or later become decayed, and are a constant menace to the health of the child since they may harbour infectious germs of all varieties. Such teeth should either be filled or pulled.

Care of the skin. The skin of a young infant is exceedingly delicate, and excoriations and eczema are of very common occurrence. These conditions are much easier of prevention than of cure. The first essential in the care of the skin is cleanliness, and this must be secured without the use of strong soaps and too much rubbing. Some bland absorbent powder like talcum, should be used in all the folds of the skin.

Don't Excite Children. General hygiene of the nervous system. Great injury is done to the nervous system of children by the influences with which they are surrounded during infancy, especially during the first year. The brain grows more during the first two years than in all the rest of life. Normal healthy development of the nervous centers demands quiet, rest, peaceful surroundings, and freedom from every thing which causes excitement or undue stimulation.

The steadily increasing frequency of functional nervous diseases among young children is one of the most powerful arguments for greater attention by physicians to the subject of hygiene of the nervous system during infancy. Most parents err through ignorance. Playing with young children stimulating to laughter and exciting them by sights, sounds, or movements until they shriek with apparent delight, may be a source of amusement to fond parents and admiring spectators, but it is almost invariably an injury to the child.

This is especially harmful when done in the evening. It is plain duty of the physician to enlighten parents upon this point, and insist that the infant shall be kept quiet, and that all such playing and romping as has been referred to shall, during the first year at least, be absolutely prohibited.

Sleep. The sleep of the newly-born infant is profound for the first two or three days and under normal conditions almost continuous. This may be so deep as to excite apprehensions of serious brain lesions. If, however, there are associated with it no convulsions and no rigidity, this early stupor usually passes away on the second or third day. The sleep of early infancy is quiet and peaceful, but not deep after the first month. After the third year the heavy sleep of childhood is commonly seen.

A healthy infant during the first few weeks sleeps from twenty to twenty-two hours of the twenty-four, waking only from hunger, pain, or discomfort. During the first six months a healthy infant will usually sleep from sixteen to eighteen hours a day, the waking periods being only from half an hour to two hours long. At the age of one year most infants sleep from fourteen to fifteen hours, viz., from eleven to twelve hours at night, and two or three during the day, usually in two naps. When two years old usually thirteen to fourteen hours' sleep are taken; eleven or twelve hours at night and one or two hours during the day, generally in a single nap.

Training in proper habits of sleep should be begun at birth. From the outset an infant should be accustomed to being put in to its crib while awake and to go to sleep of its own accord. Rocking and all other habits of this sort are useless and may be very harmful. An infant should not be allowed to sleep on the breast of the nurse, nor with the nipple of the bottle in its mouth. Other devices for putting infants to sleep, such as allowing the child to suck a rubber nipple or anything else, are positively injurious. If such means of inducing sleep are resorted to the infant soon acquires the habit of not sleeping without them.

A quiet dark room, a warm and comfortable bed, an appetite satisfied, are all that are needed to induce sleep in a healthy child. By the fifth month all feeding between 10 P. M. and 7 A. M. should be discontinued. If this is done most infants can be trained by this time to sleep all night. If the room is lighted, and the child taken from the crib or rocker or fed as soon as it awakens at night, there is no such thing as the formation of good habits of sleep. Regularity in sleep and feeding not only make the care of young infants much easier, but they are of a good deal of importance for the health of the child. The causes of disturbed or irregular sleep in young infants are mainly two—hunger and indigestion. In nursing infants it is usually the former; in those artificially fed usually the latter.

Exercise Very Important.

Exercise. This is no less important in infancy than in later childhood. An infant gets its exercise in the lusty cry which follows the cool sponge of the bath, in kicking its legs about, waving its arms, etc. By means of these pulmonary expansion and muscular development are increased and the general nutrition promoted. Infants who are old enough to creep or stand usually take sufficient exercise unless they are restrained.

At this age they should be allowed to do what they are eager to do. Every facility should be afforded for using their muscles. Exercise may be encouraged by placing upon the floor in a warm room a mattress and allowing the infant to roll and tumble upon it at will.

Airing. In summer there can be no possible objection to a young infant being allowed out of doors at the end of the first week. It should be kept in the open air as much as possible during the day. In the fall and spring this should not be permitted until the child is a month old, and then only when the outdoor temperature is above 60°F. During the outing the head should be protected from the wind and the eyes from the sun. The duration of the outing at first should be only fifteen or twenty minutes, the time gradually lengthened to two or three hours. The child should be gradually accustomed to changes of temperature in the room by opening wide the windows for a few minutes each day even before it is taken out of doors, the child being dressed meanwhile as for an outing.

When four or five months old, there is no reason why a healthy child should not go out of doors on pleasant days if the temperature is not below 20°F. While there is a prejudice on the part of many mothers and some physicians against a child's sleeping out of doors in the cold weather, it is a practice which I have always urged upon mothers, and have never seen followed by any but the most beneficial results.

Nursery should Be Airtight

Nursery. This should be the sunniest and best-ventilated room in the house. It is the physician's duty to see that proper attention is paid to the hygiene of the room in which the child spends at least four-fifths of its time during the first year. Sunlight is absolutely indispensable. Sunlight rooms always contain less organic matter and less humidity, and hence a room upon the north side of the house should always be avoided. It is important that every nursery should have a thermometer, and that this and not the sensations of the nurse should be the guide. It is almost invariably true that the nursery is overheated. Free ventilation without draughts is an absolute necessity. This is best accomplished by ventilators in the windows, of which there are many excellent devices sold in the shops.

The furniture in the nursery should be as simple as possible, heavy hangings should be positively forbidden, and upholstered furniture used only to a small extent. Floors covered with large rugs are much more cleanly than carpets, and hence are to be preferred.

Inspection.

Weight. The weight of the infant is the best means we have to measure its nutrition. It is as valuable a guide to the physician in infant feeding as in the temperature in a case of continued fever. Although the weight is not to be taken as the only guide to the child's condition, it is of such importance that we cannot afford to dispense with it during the first two years. It is a great advantage to keep up regular observations during childhood.

The average weight at birth for males is 7.55 pounds and for females 7.16 pounds. The average weight of boys at one year is 20.5 and for girls is 19.8 pounds. Weekly weightings should be made for the first six months bi-weekly for the rest of the year and monthly during the second year. Delicate children should be weighed even more frequently.

Height. The average height of the male at birth is 20.6 inches and for female it is 20.5 inches.

The height of one year for males is 29 inches while the height for females is 28.7 inches.

The most rapid gain in length is in the first year. During this period the child grows on an average a little over eight inches.

Development of the Special Senses. Sight. The newly-born infant avoids the light. Its pupils contract in a light room, and if a bright light is brought before the eyes they close. During the first few weeks the infant indicates by every sign that excessive light is unpleasant. It is important that the room in which the newly-born child is placed should be darkened, and that for the first weeks the eyes should be protected against strong light.

Hearing. For the first twenty four hours after birth infants are deaf. This deafness sometimes persists for several days. After this the hearing comes. Not only are the ears unusually sensitive to sound in infancy, but the impression produced upon the brain is often marked.

Touch. Tactile sensibility is present at birth but it is not highly developed except in the lips and tongue, where it is very acute for the obvious necessity of sucking.

Two especially sensitive areas, are the forehead and external auditory meatus.

Taste. This is highly developed, even from birth. A young infant detects with surprising accuracy the slightest variation in the taste of food and the smallest difference is often enough to cause it to refuse its bottle altogether.

Wide Variation in Speech.

Speech. There is a very wide variation in children with reference to the time of development of the functions of speech. Girls as a rule, talk from two to four months earlier than boys. Toward the end of the first year the average child begins with the words—Papa, Mamma. By the end of the second year it is able to put words together in short sentences. Progress in speech from this time on is very rapid. If a child of two years makes no attempt to speak, some mental defect may usually be inferred.

Dentition. The teeth are enclosed at birth in dental sacs which are situated in the gums. The tooth grows in length mainly as the result of the calcification of its roots, and being thus fixed below, it pushes upward towards the mucous membrane. This growth undoubtedly goes on steadily from birth until the tooth pierces the gum.

At one year the child should have six teeth and at two it should have sixteen.

Infants may be born with teeth; this is, however, an exceedingly rare occurrence.

LOOK AT A CHILD'S TONGUE WHEN CROSS, FEVERISH AND SICK

Take No Chances! Move Poisons From Liver and Bowels at Once.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, and they become tightly packed, liver gets sluggish and stomach disordered.

When cross, feverish, restless, see if tongue is coated, then give this delicious "fruit laxative." Children love it, and it cannot cause injury. No difference what ails your little one—if full of cold, or a sore throat, diarrhoea, stomach ache, bad breath, remember, a gentle "inside cleansing" should always be the first treatment given. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then look carefully and see that it is made by the "California-Fig Syrup Company." We make no smaller size. Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

WHEN HINDU LEARNS MUCH

Not Contented Then With Ignorant Wife and Changes Have to Be Made.

When a Hindu becomes educated he is not content with an ignorant wife. If he should happen to have one, which is frequently the case in a country where the marriage of children prevails, he will even run the risk of exposing her to the dangerous influence of Christian teachers in order that she may at least learn to read. Even this is not always easy to accomplish, the Indian woman's mind possessing as great powers of resistance to the entrance of knowledge as some of the Anglo Saxons. A missionary in India tells of a wife of an Indian lawyer whom one of the Bible women was teaching. "Bring a Gospel portion and teach it to my wife," he said, to the teacher, "she does not know anything, has no morals, and if she won't learn she will have a beating."

Education was to be hammered in if it could not be obtained in any other way. At first the poor woman seemed to dislike the Gospel portion, but as that was the only condition on which she could get her reading lesson, she listened indifferently. As the work went on from day to day this aversion changed to eager interest, and now she reads the New Testament gladly. And all this was accomplished, it may be added, without the threatened beating.

An effort is being made to annex a part of the Jones Branch school district to the Martha Washington school district. It is in the northwest corner of the Jones Branch, and there are two farms located.

Only Nodaway County Teacher to Win Paper.

A. G. Dempster was the only one of the persons taking the teachers' exams to win a county certificate from this county. Twenty-five sent their papers to other counties to be graded and quite a number sent their papers to Jefferson City for state grading. These have not been heard from. Most of the seventy-five who took the exams from Nodaway county were trying for grades only.
